GIRLS! THICKEN AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR AND STOP DANDRUFF

TRY THIS! YOUR HAIR GETS WAVY, GLOSSY AND ABUNDANT AT ONCE.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair, soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderrine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderrine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp. Danderrine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderrine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

DOLLAR SIGN WOULD SAVE MONEY FOR US IF MADE STANDARD

EFFORT IS NOW ON FOOT TO DISPLACE THE ENGLISH POUND STERLING.

Exchange Market Has Wobbled So Wildly, Last Few Months That American Manufacturers Lose Money in Selling Goods Abroad—Plan to Stabilize Exchange

(United Press Correspondence.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—How a great deal of money will be saved to American manufacturers if victory crowns the newly begun battle of the dollar, instead of the British pound sterling, the financial standard for the world trade, was explained to the United Press today by Max May, foreign exchange expert and vice president of the Guaranty Trust company.

Since time out of mind the pound sterling has been the world's exchange market standard. This was because Great Britain was considered a financial Gibraltar. Britain's varying war fortunes have unsettled the pound sterling, however, and it has been wobbling up and down in value almost every day. In other words, a pound's worth of American goods today may not be a pound's worth of American goods tomorrow.

"If the exchange market was stable," said Mr. May, "American exporters would be able to protect themselves by knowing what prices to quote on their products."

"As it is, if a cotton man in the south sells a million dollars worth of his product to an English firm, on a day's credit, he quotes a price based on the prevailing exchange rate. If the exchange rate has slumped by the time he ships his goods, the cotton man loses money. The seller takes a big gambling chance. The buyer does not. If payment were based on American dollars that would not occur. We are trying to make all foreign buyers, governments included, pay in American dollars."

"Plans now being formulated by American bankers to stabilize foreign exchange and may accomplish this result," he said. "The huge volume of exports are working toward that end also. The scheme under consideration should make it a fact."

"Naturally, foreign buyers are not anxious to do this. Sterling has been the financial criterion in world trade for so many years it is a hard task to get them to consider it."

"Payment in dollars for exported goods from this country would stabilize the exchange market and that I think every banker will agree, is the most important question to be settled in international banking affairs today."

"Sterling would better be around $4.65, or some nominal figure like that, at all times, than to be constantly fluctuating as it has been doing these last few months."

"In brief," concluded the exchange expert, "American exporters want the foreign buyers to assume the risk that American exporters now have to assume."

Obeys Wishes of Dead.
SALEM, Ore., Nov. 24.—The ashes of W. S. Potter, who died at his home four miles from Salem, will be scattered upon the waters of the Willamette river from the Center street bridge. Before he died, Potter expressed a desire to have his body cremated and the ashes scattered over the river he loved so well.

Fortune Left Japanese.
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The will of George D. Morgan, nephew of the late J. P. Morgan, who died in Spain on July 9 last, makes bequests totaling $470,000, and leaves the income of the residue to his widow, Yuki Kato Morgan, a distinguished Japanese authoress.

She is now residing in Paris.

UNWILLING TO REVEAL IDENTITY OF HIGHER UPS

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—"Lieut. Robert Fay, leader of the alleged gang of German bomb plotters who planned to destroy ships carrying war cargoes from this port to the allies, was brought from the Tombs prison to U. S. Attorney Marshall's office to complete his 'confession' on Tuesday. He declined to plead guilty to the charges against him and turn state's evidence. It was hoped that Fay would tell a complete story implicating certain Austrian and German officials in this country believed to be at the head of wholesale conspiracies to prevent American-made war supplies reaching the hands of the allies."

Fay tried to flicker with Mr. Marshall, who refused to enter him and bargain with Fay and the prisoner was taken back to the Tombs.

TRUNK MYSTERY.

the first examination of the articles discovered in the trunk.

Money Not Empty.

Though the belief entertained from the outset by the authorities has been that the victim was killed in cold blood with robbery as the motive, this theory is strongly substantiated by the finding of the red-stained belt, the flaps of which flapped over empty pockets.

Any doubt that the belt was worn by the man whose body was found in the trunk is dispelled by its torn appearance and the stains it bears.

Still the question of who the dead man was baffles the police. Sufficient for this purpose that he was John Lind, not the John Lind of Boston, but the John Lind who inquired after property values in both Salem and Albany. His name does not bother the police, for they are particularly interested now in the pursuit of the murderer, and the identity of the dead man can wait.

Pursuits of Murderer Unsuccessful.

In the pursuit of George Bartholomew, alias Ed Hopkins, little headway was made locally yesterday. As yet the means of egress taken from the city by the murderer has not been discovered, and the police no longer believe that he is in hiding within the limits of Portland.

Though no satisfactory clew to Bartholomew's whereabouts was found, this does not mean there were no clews. There were many of them—for example, it was reported to Detective Captain Baty that one man was certain he had seen the green trunk bobbing jauntily down the Willamette and passing under the Burnside bridge on Friday afternoon.

"Crews" Are Misleading.

As it is positively known that the trunk was thrown into the river between the hours of 1 and 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, later than it was supposedly seen floating, this does away with that "clew." Further, the tracks of the wagon in which the trunk was taken from Stark street were found on the Flanders-street wharf, and a floating object thrown in at that spot could not have floated out upon the bosom of the river, according to the harbor patrol because of the back eddies, to say nothing of floating upstream.

Another clew which Captain Baty sarcastically remarked "does away with all doubt as to when and how the murderer left the city" was brought to police headquarters yesterday morning by a volunteer detective. He told his story to Detectives John Moloney and Tichenor and later repeated it for the benefit of Captain Baty.

Volunteer Detective Holed.

He was standing in front of the Alder Hotel Monday afternoon, it appeared, when he saw a strange sight. It was a man on horseback. There was no saddle on the horse, and across the rider's knee were flung two knotted gunny-sacks. The rider was a big man with a brown mustache. The observer noticed that he had his right shoe on his left foot and vice versa.

"Well," queried Captain Baty when the narrator reached this point in the story and stopped.

"That was him." This was stated with conviction.

"But the murderer had no mustache," objected the detective captain.

"Oh, that was just a part of his disguise," replied the narrator, airily.

Other "clews" almost as wild, were met by the police and discounted. Not a shred of real conclusive evidence that Bartholomew did not take an automobile or train out of Portland Friday night was found.

Man Traps 1500 Gophers.

MONMOUTH, Ore., Nov. 24.—Miller McAleah of Monmouth, has been passing his time profitably catching gophers for farmers in this vicinity. He has caught more than 1500 of the pests the past season, receiving a bounty of 25 cents each from the farmers.

In spite of his efforts the animals are still doing considerable damage. The farmers are planning to co-operate with Mr. McAleah.

Each Blamed the Other.

NORTHERN FRANCE, Nov. 24.—Two German aviators, forced to descend behind the British lines, fought like mad between themselves, each blaming the other for his capture, until they were separated by British soldiers.

War Stopped for 5 Minutes to Rescue 2 Wounded Germans

BRITISH SOLDIERS IN NORTHERN FRANCE THEN CHEER THE ENEMY

Truce Is Arranged When Wounded Trenches Were Taken from "No Man's Land," Where He Had Laid for Several Days—English Sergeant Relates the Story

(United Press Correspondence.)

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(By Mail.)—How war was suspended for five minutes while British soldiers in Northern France rescued two wounded Germans from "No Man's Land" is told in a letter from Sgt. A. E. Berry to friends in London:

"I heard a cry and looking in front of the trench saw a wounded German on the parapet begging to bring him in. He had been there from the time of Saturday's charge and it was then dinner time Monday. He was near dead from his wounds. We could not go out to him but one of our officers shouted in German asking the enemy if we might bring him in. The Germans agreed to a five minute truce.

"One of our officers and a private carried the poor man in. He cried with joy as they laid him down and he knew he was safe. He was very badly hurt. While carrying this man they saw another, nearly buried with earth. We brought him in and then we gave three cheers for the Germans, for they had proved that they are not all bad. I can tell you that this incident very nearly brought tears to many a man's eyes there in the trenches.

ALEXANDERS

Patriotic Speech Hissed.

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 24.—One girl student at the University of California expressed disapproval of Rear-Admiral Fullam's views on patriotism by a long hiss. The interruption, however, served only to accentuate Admiral Fullam's statement that "every woman ought to be proud to have her relatives, her children, if need be, lay down their lives for their country."

"I hope the day will never come when the mothers will lose that thrill of patriotism that makes them willing to sacrifice their sons for the nation's cause," he added.

30 Killed by Air Raid.

ROME, Nov. 24.—Thirty persons are dead in Verona as a result of the dropping of bombs on the city by three Austrian aeroplanes. Thirty other persons were seriously and 19 slightly injured.
